

Gatorboy

The legend of Gatorboy begins in the Florida Everglades. A newly appointed game warden and his wife, while camping in the Everglades, confront and are viciously killed by poachers. Their infant son, left behind at their campsite, is taken and cared for by a large female alligator. Ten years later, a recently widowed retiree encounters, befriends and comes to love the elusive Gatorboy like a son. The Gatorboy takes the widow from her world of sadness to a brighter world of loving and caring for someone, who needs loving and caring for. Unfortunately, her brighter world quickly darkens as the denizens of a traveling sideshow, fueled on by a local sighting of the Gatorboy, set their sights their next attraction. The Gatorboy.