About me

I am currently a freelance filmmaker in Scottsdale, Arizona. I own and operate my small production company, CityBoys.Illc, which produces end-to-end creative media. My passion is in writing and directing. I am also skilled in cinematography and photography.

I have completed several short films, received admission to various film festivals, and won an award from the LA Underground Horror Festival for my horror film SKINWALKER.

I have worked as a DP and Camera Operator, utilizing my own Sony a7 IV and other professional cameras. I have experience across various areas of filmmaking from pre-production, lighting, set design, editing/color-grading to distribution.
