About Me

I'm Stephany Elizabeth, a multidisciplinary artist and creator based in New York/New Jersey. If it involves creating, I'm probably already doing it.

My foundation is in theater. I spent over a year performing at La Casa de la Cultura in Ecuador-Quito, where I played multiple characters within the same production and fell completely in love with the craft. That stage experience is also what shaped me as a model — the presence, the physicality, the confidence, all of it comes from there.

Beyond acting and modeling, I paint, illustrate, do costume design, photography, and I'm currently studying Entertainment Production. I've already written an original pilot episode as part of my coursework. I also handle creative direction and costume design for theater productions.

I'm bilingual in Spanish and English, with French and Italian in progress. I don't just perform, I create, I design, I produce.
